PROUD OF THE PAST; CONFIDENT OF THE FUTURE.

First school in St. Ignatius, Montana

WHERE IT BEGAN

In May of 1864, President Lincoln signed the measure creating the Montana Territory. Shortly after this declaration, several Sisters of Charity of Providence left their religious community in Montreal, Quebec. They transversed the country, finally arriving in Vancouver Washington; where four of them began their trek to Montana in response to Fr. Pierre DeSmet's plea for teachers for his new school. The fall of 1864, they arrived in St. Ignatius, Montana and settled into this humble "school by day, residence by night".

From these meek beginnings, the sisters expanded their work to begin orphanages, and schools throughout Montana; including the foundation of the College of Great Falls on September 8, 1932 by Bishop Edwin V. O'Hara. The institution was established as a junior college to provide young women in the area an opportunity for higher education.

Sisters and Students at Ursuline Academy

Sisters and Students at Normal School

The first faculty was thirteen strong and they began teaching at the Ursuline Center on Central Avenue, with 14 students. It soon became apparent that an addition to the curriculum was needed to prepare teachers adequately. Therefore, in 1933, Mother Lucia Sullivan established a Normal School Division of the Junior College in facilities on Third Avenue North, borrowed from the Columbus Hospital. By 1935 the registration included 105 female students. In 1937, the first male was admitted.

PROUD OF THE PAST . . .

Construction be[illegible] 1958

A second renovation of the institution followed in 1937 when Sister Lucia, as Dean of the College, painstakenly integrated the Junior College and Normal College curriculums to institute the basis for our present day Liberal Arts Program.

Post-war days brought enrollments which crammed the now inadequate college facilities. Mother Lucia observed the growth of the city and planned a subsequent growth in college enrollment.

In 1944 the college acquired land at the south end of the city where in 1960, eleven new buildings were erected at a cost of over three million dollars. They opened for classes in the fall of 1960.

The growth of the college continued with the addition of classroom buildings, and a separate library building.

Construction continues

McLaughlin Center Built - 1964

The death in 1949 of young James McLaughlin, 19, resulted in the construction of CGF's McLaughlin Memorial Center. The center was built and dedicated in 1965 to emphasize the college's committment to physical fitness as well as spiritual, intellectual, aesthetic, social and civic growth.

CONFIDENT OF THE FUTURE

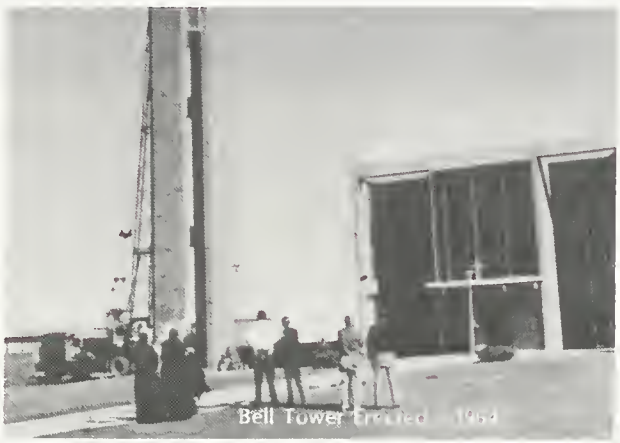
Also in 1964, the bell tower was erected near the chapel, commemorating the Sisters of Charity of Providence for 100 years of service to the people of Montana.



Today, 50 years after the foundation of the college, the sisters are again saluted as they continue to transmit their Faith, knowledge and determination to new generations through the properly integrated Catholic Liberal Arts academic program.

For,
As Albert Einstein once said:
"It is essential that the student acquires an understanding of and a lively feeling of values. He must acquire a vivid sense of the beautiful and morally good. Otherwise he with his specialized knowledge, more closely resembles a welltrained dog than a harmoniously educated person".

Dr. William A. Shields
President

Friends of C.G.F.,

In this the Golden Jubilee Year of the College of Great Falls, we joyfully celebrate fifty years of educational ministry and service to students, the people of Great Falls and citizens of Montana. Indeed, this Jubilee edition of Caritas is a special acknowledgement of our first half century.

Our joy on this occasion stems from a past thankfully remembered, a present actively lived and a future optimistically anticipated.

From its humble beginnings in the depth of a great depression, the College of Great Falls has maintained a strong tradition of academic excellence and community service emphasizing Christian values while providing for the ever-changing educational needs of the students it has and continues to serve. This commitment to excellence and service not only formed the College's founding mission but also has been its driving force throughout the past fifty years.

Therefore, it is with the assurance of this same commitment that we look forward to our second half century and to its challenges and opportunities. With the blessings of Providence and with the continuing dedication and support of those who know and love this institution, the "CGF Story" continue to unfold, and chapters yet unwritten will chronicle even greater achievements in quality, Christ-centered education and service.

Happy Fiftieth, CGF; "ad multos annos."

Have you ever seen the bumper sticker "Honk if you passed P-Chem." The chemistry majors smile knowingly Physical Chemistry is just one of the challenging and rewarding classes offered in the CGF Chemistry curriculum.

Vertebrate Embryology Ecology, Cryptogamic Botany and Hematology are just a few of the Intellectually rigorous studies followed by our Biology majors. These students continue their education after CGF to become doctors, biologist, ecologists, and enter other life science careers.

Math majors add it all together and come out on top. From the quadratic formula to Le Hospital's rule, the students receive a comprehensive study of the never ending fasinating field of numbers.

Accounting at CGF follows a tradition of excellence. Students graduating from the program enter the job market to find their place among the very best, nothing short of the top in a competitive world.

Business majors study the tug-of-war between supply and demand, learn the networks behind stocks and bonds. Some day they will step forward to be a "vertebrae" in the backbone of our economy.

"Analytically speaking" our computer majors know more languages than a U.N translator and can program the Big Apple to play chess or print out a mailing list Input/Process/Output. But, our physic students think everything is relative.

Quality before quantity - this is the key to C.G.F.'s music department. It's small size allows individual attention from our superbly talented staff to develop the talents of interested students.

Music requires a disciplined student who's ready to commit himself to serious work, but the benefits that can be reaped are unlimited.

The art department at C.G.F. allow students to fulfill their Liberal Arts requirements while learning to express themselves through the arts. Many students minor in art since it finds application with almost any major. However, most of us wander into our art class simply as a means of relaxation and spending our leisure time.

The philosophy department at C.G.F. prepares students by teaching them to use their minds. Since most business and personal situations require the ability to think clearly, a major in philosophy is also a practical asset that would be applicable in many ways. These students can make logical decisions which are truly invaluable.

To many students the word history conjures up images of long boring classes filled with hundreds of worthless names and dates of people and events that happened long ago. Why study the past when we live in the present and look towards the future? Many history majors believe that only through studying the past can we understand the present and hope to grasp the future. "By understanding the culture, social, economic, and political significance of past events one is better prepared to act in the present and plan for the future."

C.G.F. students pursue an English major out of interest and practicality. The development of writing skills and the creativity English inspires will benefit students in any occupation they may pursue. Whether they opt to go to grad. school or law school or even directly into the job market, an English major will have the advantage of a greater proficiency in the basic skills of expression and interpretation

The Constitution of the Student Senate states that its function is to "foster recognition of the rights and responsibilities of the students, to maintain academic standards and responsibility, and to enhance the students' cultural, social, and physical welfare." While Student Senate strives to achieve these goals for all students at CGF, those that serve on senate are rewarded with much more. The challenges, responsibilities, and duties accorded to senate demand prompt, efficient decision making. The opportunity to solve problems, establish budgets, meet deadlines, and work within established bylaws as a group prepares each member of senate for the future. The invaluable experience and knowledge gained by working with people will remain with each senate member long after his days at CGF.

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO MAKE A YEARBOOK? that question was asked before the first College of Great Falls Yearbook was published in 1953 . . they answered . . organization of the staff . . a separation of those who would like to work and those who would . . people who decided their time would become CARITAS time . . hours spent taking, looking at, selecting pictures . . much guesswork with accuracy that amazed even its originator . . and of course coffee breaks stolen from valuable deadline time . . . yes, all this and more, but does it matter . . the finished product is the thing.

After not having a yearbook for the past five years we asked the same question . . found the same answers.

Here are but a few integrated pages constructed for you . . a cluster of words and pictures selected to present a survey of our school . . . a record of one year . . a glimpse into many.

The Internation Students at C.G.F. range from Japanese to Yapese, including British and Dutch, with the greatest population being Japanese. Although the difference between their homelands and America are apparent they have adapted well. Most say that the climate and the food are the most difficult to adjust to. We are very fortunate to have these students and friends on campus.

Delta Epsilon Sigma is a national scholastic honor society for students, faculty, and alumni of colleges and universities with a Catholic tradition.

In July of 1963, Sr. Agnes Kathleen, Academic Vice President of the College of Great Falls, submitted an application to the national organization for the formation of a local chapter. The Charter was granted in October of 1964 by the Executive Committee, but it wasn't until March 11, 1965 that the Gamma Upsilon Chapter held its first organizational meeting. At that meeting Don Brockland and Marilyn A. Zook were elected as the first President and secretary.

The local chapter was dedicated to the recognition of outstanding academic accomplishment, the fostering of noteworthy intellectual activity and responsible service to others. As stated in the By-laws, to be eligible for membership students must have completed at least 60 credit hours of their degree requirements with a distinction of cum laude. Faculty members and alumni are eligible for election to membership if they have either graduated cum laude or have received a graduate degree.

The local chapter was active for several years following its installation in 1965, but in more recent years has been somewhat dormant. Through the effort of Dr. Hepburn, the National Secretary-Treasurer of DES, and Roger Snow, our faculty advisor, the charter of Gamma Upsilon has been reestablished and the chapter reactivated.

CGF ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

As the academic year concludes we have the opportunity to review a busy and successful season for the College of Great Falls Alumni Association. The College is alive, well and growing in its 50th Golden Jubilee Year, with innovative courses and continuing education programs expanding the curriculum.

The CGF Alumni Association was very active and visible this year, not only on campus, but in the local Great Falls community. In the fall, the Alumni Association jointly sponsored and presented a workshop on Alcoholism and Chemical Dependency. In February and March, the Alumni Association presented a six week workshop on Financial Management. This workshop was offered as a public service with continuing education credit. It was so well received that it will be repeated in the fall of 1982.

BASH continues to involve more alumni in every phase, from procurement to the auction itself. This brain child of the Alumni Association has flourished over the past 9 years and has become a significant financial contribution to the College.

Campus beautification has been expanded with the completion of a two-year project of planting and landscaping the garden in the Providence Forum atrium. The largest project of the 1981-82 school year was the purchasing and planting of 50 trees in honor of the 50th jubilee. A tree for each class, with the names of class members placed in a container at the foot of each tree, was made possible through the contribution of individual classes. It is hoped that the tradition will continue with a "green living memorial" given for all future classes.

A dinner fund raiser with Robert Redford is planned for the next academic year. A Jazz Band Festival and CGF Art Show are scheduled for fall, and plans are in process to organize alumni groups outside of Great Falls. The Alumni Association will continue to encourage participation of all alumni and friends of the College and invites new ideas and suggestions.

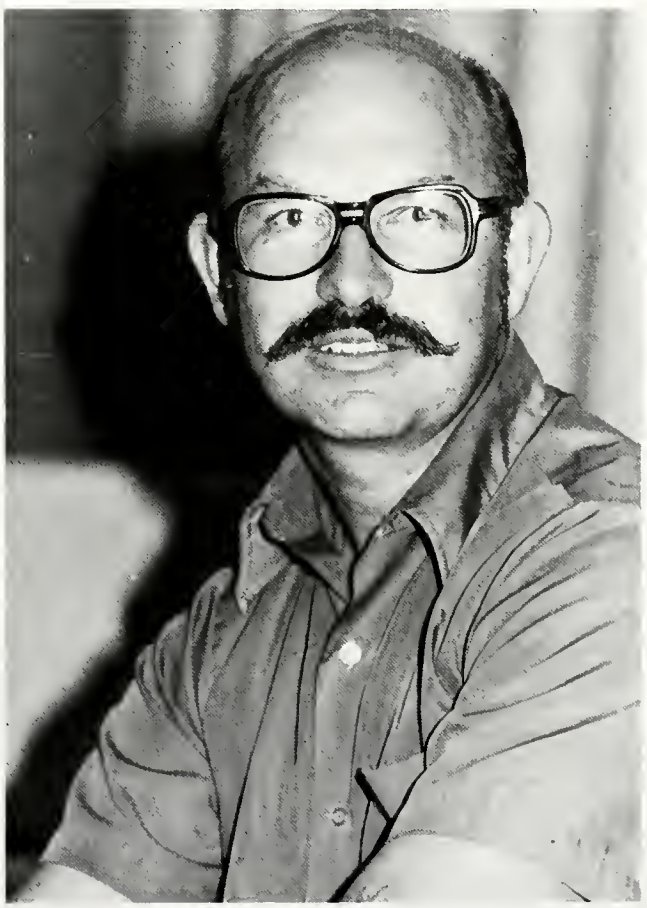
An ambitious calendar is assured for the next year through the leadership of new Alumni Officers: John Myers, Dennis Beams; Rose Marie Chabot and the Alumni Board. Dr. Kathleen Cronin is campus co-ordinator for the Alumni and can be reached at the College for details and updating of current projects.

I have found this past year a challenge and a happy experience in the accomplishing of rewarding goals. Special thanks go to the campus community of sisters, students, administration, faculty, and staff for their generous commitments during 1982.

Sincerely,

Chris Christiaens

NOTE:
The Alumni Association originated in 1937 when member of the first four-year graduating class met to organize the Delta Theta Pi Alumni ... the purpose ... to maintain among graduates the ideals and objectives established during college years ... to form bonds of friendship among the members ... to promote the progress of the college.



Chris Christiaens
Alumni President
